CIO EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

- ▸ Premarket risk-off: SPY -0.62%, QQQ -0.8%, S&P futures -23bps; tech weakness persists from AI sell-off yesterday
- ▸ Nikkei -1.97% OVN signals global equity caution; rates/Fed cut timing uncertainty + Middle East geopolitical premium in crude ($88 WTI, $91.28 Brent)
- ▸ Sector rotation favors: industrials, infrastructure, energy, materials, value vs. growth; unprofitable tech losing momentum
- ▸ Major catalysts TODAY: ORCL earnings after close (EPS $1.96 exp, $19.1B rev +20% YoY), ADBE Thursday, CPB pre-open
- ▸ Unusual volume in small caps (PLCE, AUGG, FOSL, VXRT, IOBT) suggests retail/options momentum; monitor for spike intraday

RISK ALERTS

ORCL earnings AH represents single largest intraday volatility catalyst; set tighter stops on tech if earnings disappoint

Nikkei -1.97% OVN + S&P futures -31bps = risk-off cascade risk; if SPY breaks $728 (support), reduce sector concentration 15–20%

Middle East geopolitical premium in crude ($88–$91) = tail risk; if oil spikes >5% intraday, energy outperformance could reverse; hedge with tight stops

Small-cap volume spikes (PLCE, AUGG, FOSL, VXRT, etc.) indicate retail/options gamma concentration; avoid chasing; liquidity evaporates on reversal

XLK breakdown below 200-day MA + QQQ -0.8% = potential cascade into growth/AI purge; if SPY -1.5% by noon, trigger risk-off protocol: 50% cash, hedge QQQ with puts

FINAL CIO VERDICT

RISK POSTURE

Neutral

CAPITAL SHOULD FLOW TO

50% hold core index (SPY/IVV/VTI); 20% rotate XLK → XLE (3–5% add on $95–96 support); 30% preserve dry powder for ORCL post-earnings dip buy or large-cap value accumulation on SPY -1.5%+ break; 0% new growth/AI long until ORCL clarity

AVOID COMPLETELY

Do NOT chase PLCE/AUGG/VXRT/LGO retail breakouts premarket; do NOT short tech into ORCL (headline risk too high); do NOT add QQQ exposure until macro risk-off clears; do NOT sell calls on ORCL/ADBE until post-earnings vol crush settles (35+ DTE minimum)
