

CIO EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

- ▶ SPY +0.63%, QQQ +0.79%, IWM +1.11% — small-cap leadership signals risk-on bias
- ▶ VIX futures contained, oil $113.70 +1.15% on Iran/geopolitical premium — energy bid
- ▶ Fed neutral-to-hawkish: June cut unlikely, next move slightly higher probability
- ▶ Sector rotation: AI/unprofitable tech OUT, infrastructure/reshoring/value IN — active ETF momentum strong
- ▶ NVDA/WMT/HD earnings this week — bellwether setups for semis, retail, consumer; high options flow expected

RISK ALERTS

⚠ NVDA/semis earnings this week — expect gamma/theta whips; hold core, trim extremes on +8% | WMT/HD/MRK earnings volume will test small position liquidity; respect 8% trim rule

⚠ Oil $113.70 on Iran/geopolitical premium — watch for sudden reversal if tensions ease (downside tail risk to energy, upside risk to defensives)

⚠ Fed neutral-to-hawkish tone = rate cuts off table; long-duration / unprofitable tech at structural risk; favor value/infrastructure rotation

⚠ VIX est. 14-15 (complacent zone) — options premium is compressing; wheel strategies face lower capture; be selective on selling puts until vol reprices

⚠ Small-cap outperforming (IWM +1.11%) on risk-on; if portfolio turns -6%, rotate to large-cap / defensive; monitor SPY breaks below $745 and QQQ below $715 as trend breaks
